By successfully tapping a natural gas vein underneath its property at Vande-venter avenue and Forest Park boulevard. the Welle-Boettler Bakery Company now has two gas wells on its property. The nd well was "blown in" at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the drill striking into the vein at a depth of 675 feet. For the last eight months the first well has been in successful operation, with only several slight interruptions. The second well evidently struck into the same vein, as the depth of each is practically the

When the vein was tapped all work was stopped. Preparations were made for an immediate "blowing in" of the well. It will be equipped with the markinery necessary for controlling the flow of gas, which will be used for heating the furnaces and ovens.

The operation of the first well induced the company to sink the second several months ago, but after going to a depth of 1,000 feet it was abandoned and the third was undertaken with more satisfactory results.

In the first well a gas vein was tapped at 650 feet, but the depth was extended nearly thirty feet. Since then the well has furnished fuel for heating six furnaces and three ovens, without the slightest evidence of failing. It is the opinion of experts that the supply is sufficient for all time.

of experts that the supply is sufficient for all time.

The second well gives even greater promise. The pressure is greater than shown by the first well at a similar stage of development. When the machinery has been placed snd a test made, it is confidently expected that a much greater pressure will be shown.

In sinking the well water was struck at 200 feet and oil was found at 250 feet. The oil was of good quality, but the object was to obtain gas, and little attention was paid to the oil discovery.

Natural sas in the neighborhood was discovered by William C. Pope of No. 4506 Westminster place. He has contended for many months that there is a supply of natural gas underlying the city sufficient to meet every requirement for light and bent in factory, office or residence.

FIND DEAD BODY OF CITY OFFICIAL

Thomas H. McGraw, Head of Dal las Waterworks, Discovered Mangled Under Bridge.

CAUSE OF DEATH IS UNKNOWN.

Friction With Other Officials and Consequent Depression Causes Public Belief to Be Divided.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL Dallas, Tex., Dec. 2.—The dead body of Thomas H. McGraw, Superintendent of the City Water Department of Dallas, conceded to be one of the most important public positions in the municipality, wafound badly mangled under the Texas and Pacific Railrond bridge across the Trinity River this morning.

In Mr. McGraw's pockets were found about $17 and a tacket to San Francisco, Cal. There is uncertainty as to whether Mr. McGraw's death was the result of accidentally falling or walking from a train, or whether, in a sudden spasm of depression he hurled himself a distance of seventy feet to the river bank.

He had been connected with the Dallas City Waterworks Department for nineteen years in various important capacities. Last April, in a spirited campaign in the city election, he was elected Superintendent by a large majority.
FRICTION WITH OTHER OFFICIALS.

Immediately keen friction arose between McGraw and other city officials. said to have resulted because of his announced determination to be the head of the Water Department, and not to be restricted by other officials. The City Council began impeachment proceedings inst summer, but finally abandoned them. Recently a movement was started to legislate McGraw out of office when the State Legislature should meet in Austin.

These troubles are related.

State Logislature should meet in Austra.

These troubles are said to have caused McGraw to be very much depressed, and the knowledge of them confuses the public mind as to the real cause of his mysterious death.

Mr. McGraw was born in Rochester, N. Y., in 1854, and came to Dallas in 1883. Previous to the latter date he had been connected with the water departments of Los Angeles, Cal., and of Wallace and Las Vegas, N. M. He was considered the best-informed man in the Dalas Water Department, and was credited with carrying a complete map "in his head." He was a member of the Hibernians and the Rod Men, and will be buried by those orders.

Drought Threatens Kentucky Whiskey

A Louisville paper, dated November 29, 1994, commenting on the terrible drought prevailing in that State, said: "The record-breaking drought in Kentucky is beginning to decrease the milk supply in Louisville. A number of distillers have suspended operations until rain fails. In a number of small places the citizens are buying water and farmers are compelled in many instances to drive stock several miles to water. In many churches yesterday prayers were offered for rain. There has been no rain since July 3."

STATEMENT FROM A BOY.

Youth Says He Was Told to Say He Saw Larch at 6:30 P. M .-Shooting Occurred at 8:30 P. M.

New clews are rapidly developing in the case of Frederick L. Drake, who was shot near Kimmswick Tuesday night, and later taken to the Alexian Brothers' Hospital, on South Broadway.

Fred Larch, who at different times worked for Drake, was arrested yesterday afternoon on the strength of a story told by Felix Blard, 13 years old. Blard said that the night of the shooting Larch met him in the neighborhood of Drake's home and told him to say that the time he was seen was 6:30 o'clock instead of

The shooting occurred at $:20 o'clock and Detective Greene of the Field Agency arrested him, hoping that in some way he could secure the other evidence necessary to make a case. At the time of the hearing the boy who had first told the story contradicted what he had formerly said, and Larch vas released, with the understanding that he was not to leave the county.

Later in the day, Frank Rapp, a perional friend of Drake, who has been conducting the search for his assailant, discovered on the road to Wick, where he was going from Kimmswick, two newspapers and a piece of cloth, each covered with blood. Rapp recognized one of the papers as one he had seen at Drake's come a short time before the shooting and the cloth looked as if it had been wrapped around a cut finger.

If the theory that the assailant took the road to Wick after the shooting is correct. Larch probably will be exonerated, as the road to his home, situated a short distance from Drake's house, is in the opposite direction.

Several detectives are on the scens, and every effort will be made to locate the party or parties who are implicated in the shooting.

Drake is rapidly improving at the hospital, but it will be some time before he will be able to tall his story regarding the occurrence.

A double quartet will sing to-morrow afternoon at the annual memorial exer-cises of the Alton Lodge of Eiks, to be
